

Page Six

Portrait hanging in Hamptons compiles Seinfeld's TV girlfriends

By Ian Mohr

August 29, 2014 | 12:05am

A still from the "Seinfeld" episode "The Strike" — with Jerry's "two-faced" girlfriend, Gwen (played by Karen Fineman).

Photo: Fox

Artist Richard Prince's composite portrait of the 57 girlfriends he says Jerry Seinfeld had on his classic sitcom is on display in the actor's proverbial backyard.

The image is hanging in gallerist Leila Heller's

Southampton Arts Center show, curated with Kelly Behun, and titled, “Close-Up: Contemporary Portraiture.”

Also included are a Patrick McMullan image of Lindsay Lohan, a Julian Schnabel portrait of Geoffrey Bradfield, works by Anh Duong and Jeff Koons, and Nigerian artist Ike Ude’s portrait of philanthropist Jean Shafiroff, which will debut on the cover of Social Life magazine over Labor Day weekend. The show wraps on Sept. 7.

FILED UNDER ART, SEINFELD, THE HAMPTONS