

Prêt-à-Party | The Iké Udé Book Launch

MEN'S FASHION, WOMEN'S FASHION | By CATOR SPARKS | NOVEMBER 19, 2008, 12:23 PM

From left, Pat Cleveland, Ike Udé and Marisa Berenson.

The peacocks and peahen of fashion paraded in full splendor last night at the book launch of “Iké Udé’s Style File: The World’s Most Elegantly Dressed People.” Held in Diane von Furstenberg’s flagship in the meatpacking district, the party attracted many of the people featured in the book, including Pat Cleveland, Patrick McDonald and Kenny Kenny.

Berenson raved about Ude, a magazine editor and artist, whom she met through von Furstenberg. “I have such great admiration for someone so varied and dedicated,” said the erstwhile It Girl. Equally excited was Iris Apfel, the self-styled “geriatric superstar” of New York fashion. “I just came from a speech about ghastly diseases,” Apfel said. “Needless to say I am thrilled to be here after that.”

f FACEBOOK t TWITTER + GOOGLE+ ✉ E-MAIL + SHARE 🖨 PRINT

Men's Fashion, Women's Fashion, cator sparks, Ike Udé, Iké Udé's Style File: The World's Most Elegantly, Iris Apfel, Kenny Kenny, Pat Cleveland, Patrick McDonald

