Iranian-born, London-based photographer and professor, Mitra Tabrizian is making international headlines with her photos, featuring carefully chosen locations and meticulously staged models. Alluding to the global financial crisis in "City London 2008" (above, 2008), she invited the senior staff of JPMorgan to pose in the lobby of their London headquarters. Other global themes such as migration, urban alienation, identity and belonging are parsed in Tabrizian's work, on view at the Leila Heller Gallery (this page), Jun. 7 - Jul. 7.
