'Nollywood Portraits: A Radical Beauty' at Museum of Contemporary Photography, Chicago

BY BLOUIN ARTINFO DATEBOOK | OCTOBER 20, 2016

Celebrating the popularity of the African film industry, a special exhibition titled "Nollywood Portraits: A Radical Beauty" is currently on view at Museum of Contemporary Photography, Chicago and will continue to run through December 23, 2016. The exhibition features a collection of photographs of some of the most popular actors of Nollywood. A total of 64 photographs taken by Iké Udé during his visit to Nigeria in 2014 will be showcased. The photographs feature renowned screen icon Genevieve Nnaji, veteran actor Richard Mofe-Damijo, established actor/director Stephanie Okereke, maverick filmmaker Kunle Afolayan, as well as the next generation of rising stars.
