

LEILA HELLER.

White, Katie. "Ran Hwang in The Flight of Time at Leila Heller Gallery." Artnet News. (September 24, 2019).

artnet news

Ran Hwang, Healing Forest (2018). Courtesy of Leila Heller Gallery.

"The Flight of Time," the artist's first exhibition with Leila Heller, presents a curated selection of works from across Hwang's career that address the artist's recurring preoccupation with the passage of time. The fleeting impermanence of life, embodied by her "Plum Blossom" series, is juxtaposed with more recent "Buddha" and "Temple" works that consider time and its subjectivity through the lenses of spirituality and religion. Hwang addresses such cosmic questions through delightfully quotidian materials like buttons, pins, and beads (she began her career working in an embroidery design studio) and her labor-intensive practice mixes traditional women's work and handicraft with monk-like concentration.

"Ran Hwang: The Flight of Time" is on view through November 7, 2019, at Leila Heller Gallery, I-87, Alserkal Avenue Al Quoz 1, Dubai