The candor of Rachel Lee Hovnanian's works at the Poggiali Gallery in Pietrasanta. On display tondos that recall the fifteenth-century tradition born in Tuscany. Opening on 13 July

The Poggiali Gallery in Florence and Milan - in the Pietrasanta headquarters, in Via Garibaldi 8 and with inauguration on Saturday 13 July 2019 at 6.30 pm - presents Silenzio, the personal exhibition (all white) of the American artist Rachel Lee Hovnanian (Parkersburg, West Virginia, 1959), always linked to the Versilia for working marble, just back from a solo show at the Leila Heller Gallery in New York. The exhibition opens in conjunction with the "Open Secrets" project which will be presented in the halls of the Palazzo Mediceo, a World Heritage Site, in Seravezza, curated by Annalisa Bugliani and organized by the Pechersky Family Foundation in collaboration with the Poggiali Gallery and the Terre Medicee Foundation.

LEILA HELLER.

All selected specifically for the occasion, the works exhibited in the Gallery reflect an intimate and natural dimension, compared to an uncontrolled explosion of hyper-connectivity, highlighted with irony and almost in contrast to Seravezza, able to overwhelm human relationships and values of reference.

The works of Rachel Lee Hovnanian, always impregnated with narcissism, obsession and intimacy, in this circumstance enhance the dimension of an invitation to the delicate and intimate return represented by natural fractal structures, as a synthesis addressed to a re-reading no longer obsessed with communication now impersonal, without brake.

The exhibition

They are especially rounds of about 50 cm in diameter, whose shape recalls the fifteenth-century tradition, spread in Tuscany that, in the Via Garibaldi project room, will dialogue with a marble sculpture that represents a child whose mouth is poetically reduced to silence due to the presence of two patches. In the spaces of the Poggiali Gallery in the former Fonderia d'Arte Luigi Tommasi there will be other rounds of the same series - Natural Fractile Series - of different sizes.
