There's never been a more exciting time to be an art lover in the city — and country. Indian artists have been having highly successful showings at art fairs abroad, and global interest in desi art saw the highest jump (32 per cent) out of any other country last year. The reverse is also true; Indian collectors have become major players in the international market. At a time when global art sales have taken a nosedive, the total auction sales from India's biggest platforms have more than doubled between 2020 and 2022, going from $41.2 million to $92 million.
